

Weekends with Lynette Morgan

Saturday 12noon-5pm Sunday 2pm-7pm

I'm a Washington native, but spent most of my younger years moving around the country with my family. My daddy was a Pastor, and eventually we settled in the Midwest where I nabbed my first radio job on the weekends when I was 15.

I went on to attend Evangel University in Springfield, Missouri and worked for every radio station in the area that would hire me. I met and married my wonderful husband Bobby 27 years ago and was blessed with the wonderful opportunity to work with CRISTA in Seattle, Washington and move back to the Pacific Northwest!

After working with CRISTA on EVERY shift possible for 23 years, I moved to the Morning Show on their sister station, just outside of Vancouver, British Columbia. I have felt God's hand in my life all throughout the wonderful journey he has had me on. I celebrate the good times and I thank him for holding me through the hard times, including my husband's stroke 4 years ago. It was tough on our family and our marriage, but I embrace whatever comes next knowing that HE will guide my steps. I try to find joy in everything!

When I am NOT talking on the microphone, I love hanging at home with the family. We have 3 amazing kids, and an ever-changing menagerie of animals. You can find us camping in the summer, hanging at the beach and following the kids around with my camera at their various school and sporting events!

I am a huge scrapbooking fan and have put together over "a million scrapbooks" according to my hubby! I feel so blessed and am excited to be a part of the Austin community. I can't wait to see what God will do next! My seatbelt is on, I'm strapped in and ready to go...
